

Mr. Paul Dickman
Senior Policy Fellow, ANL

Mr. Dickman is a Senior Policy Fellow with Argonne National Laboratory focusing on nuclear energy, safety, and national security policy. For over thirty-five years Mr. Dickman has been involved in the forefront nuclear energy and national security programs in the U.S. and internationally. He has held senior managerial positions at the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Department of Energy's National Nuclear Security Administration. He holds leadership positions in the American Nuclear Society and the World Council on Isotopes and advises organizations on risk communication. He also serves as a Special International Advisor to the Japanese Government on the decommissioning and remediation of the Fukushima accident site.